

Sogestran Logistics expands its urban delivery services on the Seine River

Waterways at the service of carbon-free last-mile logistics into the heart of the French capital.

A new port-owned warehouse at Gennevilliers

Sogestran Logistics has just inaugurated a 2,400 sq.m waterfront warehouse at the port of Gennevilliers. This warehouse, which can meet all types of goods storage and consolidation requirements, completes the combined transport operator's logistics plan.

With its expertise in river logistics, Sogestran Logistics can offer its customers a complete transport solution between its warehouse and the heart of Paris.

An integrated, low-carbon logistics solution

Final goals: to offer complete solutions from the Gennevilliers warehouse

- a daily multi-customer shuttle service, starting in 2024,
- dedicated boats for specific traffics, such as IKEA that has been using for one year river transport on the Seine to deliver the Paris consumption area.

- The shared-use docks at the Austerlitz and Debilly ports in Paris - provided via a concession between Sogestran and HAROPA PORT - enable goods to be unloaded right in the center of Paris.

River urban delivery, a solution with many advantages:

- Environment-friendly, with 4 times less CO2 emitted than road transport per tonne carried
- Reliable, regular services suited to all types of goods
- Reducing congestion and noise pollution in the city
